Although at this stage I'm not having much luck with it, I thought it would be good to expand my horizons and write this project for a practice. The goal of this project is to create a small use application where people can view their recent inbound mails, and see the type of email and sender. The project is going to use the Gmail API to scrape the Gmail web interface and find out what types of emails are being sent, and what the 50b96ab0b6
